

Moral and Spiritual Based Teaching and Learning Support Education Life to School Children

1. Introduction

The regulating role of the traditional ethnic and cultural values in spiritual and moral upbringing of children is under consideration in the article. The basic components of the educational environment contents are folklore as a source of ethnic and cultural values and its values' subjective constituent actualization. The Sakha people's idea about a creative personality is represented. The child's upbringing principles as a subject of culture are defined.

1.1 Overview

I have built a website for Moral and Spiritual Based Teaching and Learning Support Education Life to School Children. The impetus for this collaborative research project on spirituality in education grew out of a desire by those involved to explore inclusive approaches to spiritual education in Ireland, North and South. Aware of the increasing religious and cultural diversity of young people on the island of Ireland and the challenges this has raised for religious education in particular, it was felt that there would be a benefit in investigating specific methods and pedagogical practices used to encourage spiritual development in young people whatever their religious or non-religious worldview

1.2 Purpose

Objectives and values in children's upbringing:

- Spiritual development is the development of the non-material aspects of life, focusing on personal insight, values, meanings and purpose.
- Moral development involves supporting students to make considered choices around their behavior. Moral development is also learning about society's values, understanding the reasons for them, how they are derived and change and how disagreements are resolved.
- Social development helps students to work effectively together, developing the inter-personal skills required to relate positively with their peers and people of all ages.
- Cultural development supports students to understand, feel comfortable with, value and appreciate the potential enrichment of cultural diversity.

2. LITERATURE SURVEY

2.1 Existing problem

Society is facing the problem of values as a result of unethical priorities. Humanistic values are diverse. There are personal values, family values etc. However, the spiritual prosperity of any nation is impossible without knowledge of the essence of those national values that unite people and without providing adequate pedagogical conditions for their acquiring as land marks in their own lives by growing generations.

Spirituality in education, as a necessity in improving the quality of teaching and learning, is affected by various personal, social, religious, and cultural factors. Since the identification of these factors can empower the faculties and facilitate the transfer of spiritual concepts through teaching, the aim of this study is explanation of the factors affecting the spirituality transfer in education process. Having a positive attitude toward society and religious government, paying attention to the spiritual development of the student and the recognition of teaching as a sacred thing through the recognition of God as the source of their knowledge and also self-recognition are among internal attitudes and beliefs that can affect the performance of the teacher to convey spiritual concepts through teaching.

2.2 Proposed solution

I think we should first look at teaching as a valuable, moral, humanistic, and religious work, not technical aspects.” Spirituality is belief to religious doctrine. “In most cases, teachers who were more religious, I felt there was more spiritual both in teaching and ethics.”

“The ethical approach to education, such as forgiveness, compassion, tolerance, responsibility, and love, leads to the ultimate universal teaching for each subject; the teacher's and student's energy will be doubled.”

3. THEORITICAL ANALYSIS

3.1 Block diagram

In educational environment the children’s personal potential “raising” is declared to be a reliable guarantee of becoming a spiritual person, but in fact, child's subjectivity in life and culture is not widely recognized. Generally, the educational process aims at personal development of a child and educators. Other objectives are known to be important but they can’t be achieved at the expense of the main goal. “to help people to be individuals is much more important than helping them to become mathematician so connoisseurs of French. ”.In this way, the system of values and priorities undergoes changes.

- ✓ Spiritual development is the development of the non-material aspects of life, focusing on personal insight, values, meanings and purpose.
- ✓ Moral development involves supporting students to make considered choices around their behavior and the values that provide a framework for how they choose to live.
- ✓ Social development helps students to work effectively together, developing the inter-personal skills required to relate positively with their peers and people of all ages.
- ✓ Cultural development supports students to understand, feel comfortable with, value and appreciate the potential enrichment of cultural diversity.
- ✓ Sadvidya is the technology with smart skill and they can do great things on their own.
- ✓ Brahmavidya is the study of spiritual knowledge of the Divine Faith and the knowledge of the absolute.

4. EXPERIMENTAL INVESTIGATIONS

Respecting the student and his rights, refusing to repeated blame, paying attention to the student's conditions and supporting him, compassion and sympathy, deep and lasting relationship with him, providing a good and accurate feedback, making the student calm, and inducing hope in him and being flexible are among factors that enhance the student's intimacy and trust to teacher and increase the influence of his speech.

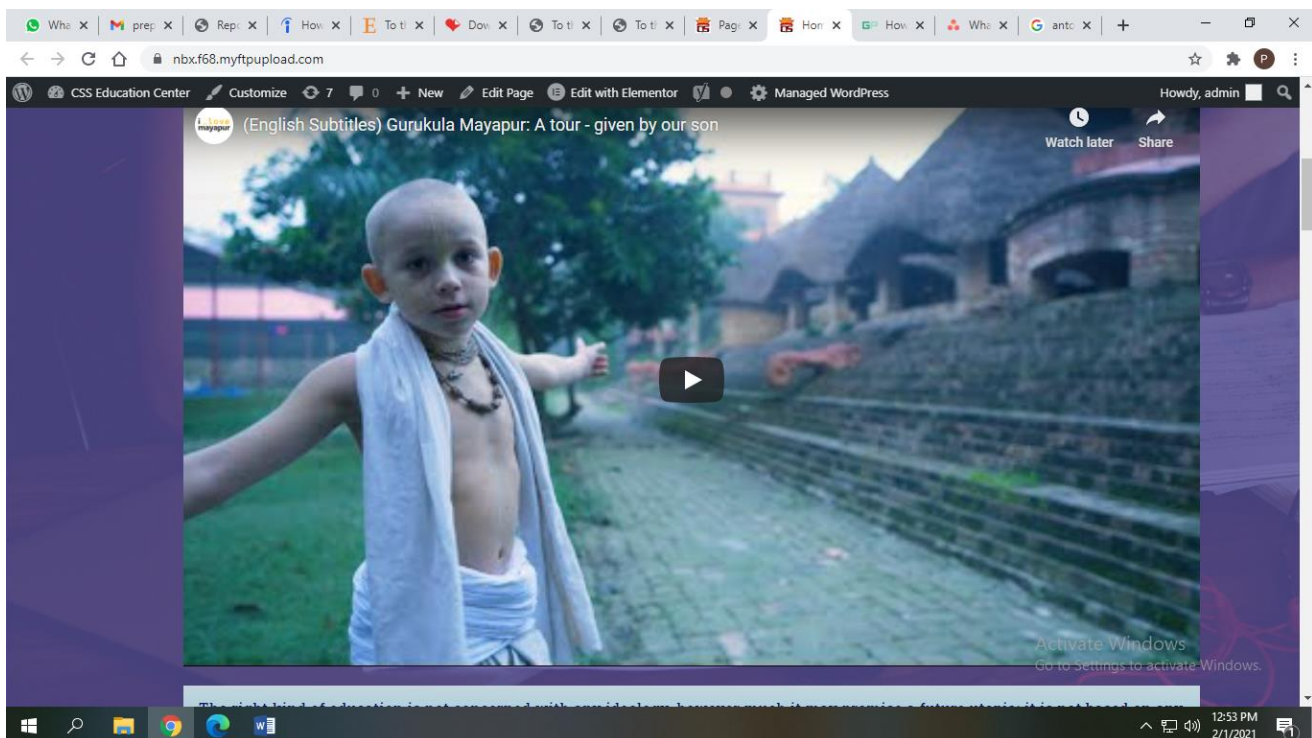

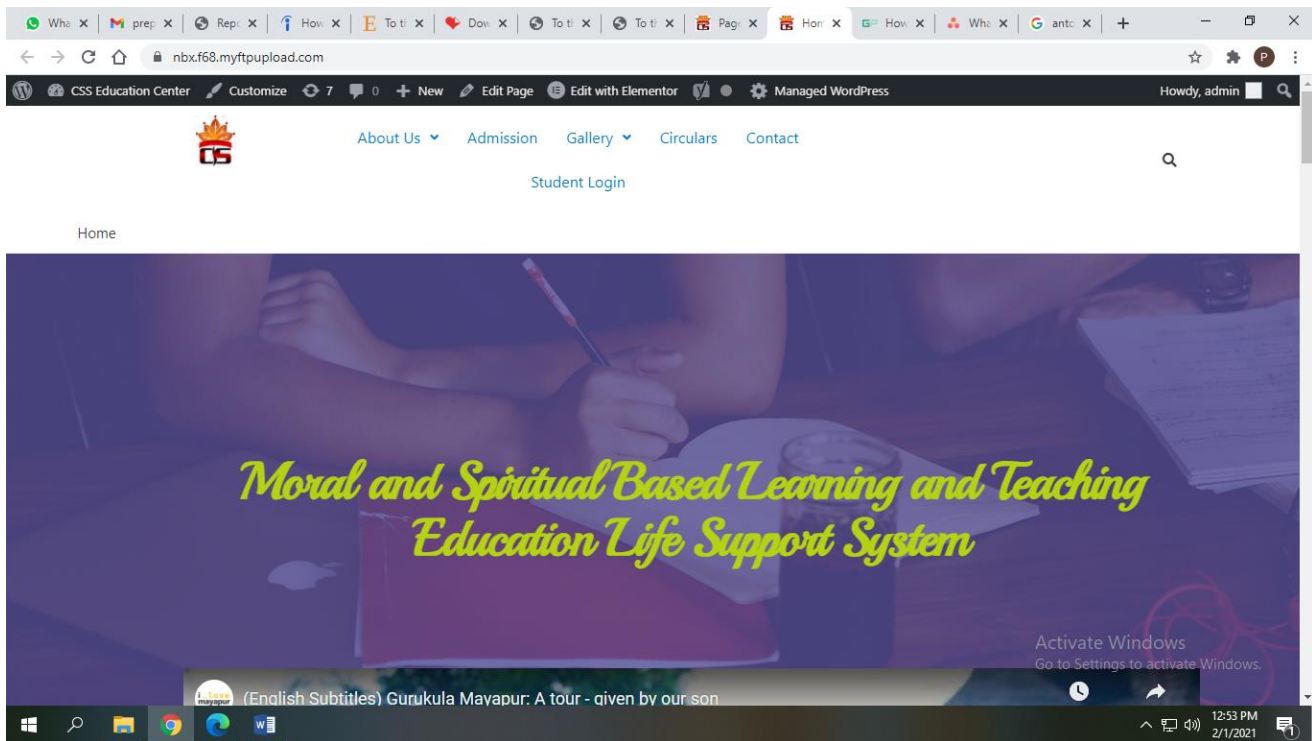

“Everyone has his own problems. When a teacher understands the anxiety and problems of him/her, he tries to overcome it, which means spirituality.” “Self-kindness, in fact, kindness in its maximum, perhaps is spirituality.” “Teacher should be in a way that brings peace to students.” “Paying attention to collaborative learning: Group activities.” “Using easy and expressive words: Avoiding too much interpretations and expressions about the concept.” “Knowing the techniques and methods of successful teaching and avoiding mistakes which means the spirit of teaching.

5. LOWCHART

Teacher's acquaintance with teaching skills such as short, exciting and appealing expressions, providing quality and practical training, skills in the design of spiritual topics, having sufficient and up-to-date information about lessons, taking advantage of effective teaching methods, ability to manage the class, and paying attention to the individual differences of students and the application of these methods can increase the transfer of spiritual concepts through teaching.

7. ADVANTAGES & DISADVANTAGES

Advantages:

One of the major advantages of WordPress is that it has thousands of plugins for almost every functionality. you can find specific plugins for everything to write lines of code for every functionality you want on your site. You just need to install the plugin.

WordPress is also an excellent teacher to identify the most used phrases & words in your blog that can be used as keywords to make your page/blog more SEO-friendly. This way, more people will be able to find your content, while benefiting from it.

With increasing usage of mobile devices for internet surfing, having a mobile-friendly site is crucial to the UX as well as SEO. When it comes to being responsive, most of WordPress's themes and designs are responsive. By using WordPress as your website's CMS, you'll be able to benefit from a responsive site for your business without having to create a separate website altogether.

One of the prime benefits is that WordPress is an open-source platform. It means the developer can use, change, and study the code without having to create it from scratch.

- User-Friendly CMS
- Plugins
- SEO-Friendly
- Responsive Websites
- Open-Source Community

Disadvantages:

Unlike other drag and drop web builder tools out there, WordPress is quite a flexible tool. However, if you're not an expert of WordPress or if you don't have a skilled WordPress developer for it, you might face some serious issues.

Problems such as updating core WordPress can be troublesome as updating can break some of the functionality. Also, if you are not well-versed with the practices used for designing the site, it can become a problem too.

One of the major disadvantages of this CMS is that it can be vulnerable in multiple cases. Since WordPress is an open-source platform, it opens the room to potential hackers. In order to mitigate this risk, choosing the right themes and plugins for your WordPress websites is crucial. Also, it is always good to assess the quality of a WordPress plugin before installing it.

- Customization
- Vulnerability & Data Security

8. APPLICATIONS

I'll cover why you may not want to use WordPress in a bit. PHP is free. MySQL is free. Most plugins are free. Hosting costs money. But depending on how big your web application is and how much traffic you get, it can be relatively inexpensive. If you require custom functionality not found in any existing plugins, you may need to pay a developer to build it. Or if you are a developer yourself, it will cost you some time.

- Content Management
- User Management Secure
- Plugins
- Flexibility

-  Announce your startup with a one-page website.
  -  Add a form to gather email addresses.
  -  Add a blog.
  -  Focus on SEO and optimize all content.
  -  Push blog posts to Twitter and Facebook.
  -  Add forums.
  -  Use the Paid Memberships Pro plugin to allow members to pay for access.
  -  Add custom forms, tools, and application behaviors for paying members.
  -  Update the UI using AJAX.
  -  Tweak the site and server to scale.
- Localize the site/app for different countries and languages.
  - Launch iOS and Android wrappers for the app.

9. CONCLUSION

Thus, on the analysis of research and teaching literature we can make the following conclusion:

Each historically specific type of society brings about changes in the world of ethnic and cultural values, but their fundamental nature does not change, developing further and acting as a guarantee of becoming a creative personality. The revealed cultural values are found to have a regulatory role and perform predictive and other functions in human life.

For spiritual and moral development of children on the values of ethnic and cultural traditions it is necessary to renew the basic components of educational environment: to introduce folklore as a source of ethnic and cultural values and its values' subjective constituent actualization in the contents; to intensify the use of project and research methods in teaching; to design developing and adaptive rehabilitation environment for children in the subject sphere.
